

Compare Bullying and Cyberbullying

Lesson 2, Student Activity 3

The following chart on the left states some common characteristics of bullying behaviors. On the right give the equivalent but different characteristic of cyberbullying actions. The first one has been done for you, as an example.

Bullying	Cyberbullying
A bully says something nasty and it's only heard when he or she says it.	A cyberbully can say something damaging online and it may be accessed practically forever.
The bully makes him or herself known to the victim.
The primary bully is usually physically stronger.
Bullies are usually limited to attacking at certain hours of the day.
Often bullies attack face to face.
In most physical bullying attacks, there are relatively few witnesses.
