Seattle School Board: New Officers

Will Serve One-Year Terms

SEATTLE – The Seattle Public Schools School Board has elected a new slate of officers. The seven-member board made its elections during the regular school board meeting on Dec. 2, 2020.

Chandra N. Hampson – president

Brandon Hersey – vice president

Lisa Rivera-Smith - member-at-large

The board officers began their tenure the same day as the officer election and will serve in their officer positions for a one-year term.

FROM PRES. HAMPSON

"I am honored to be elected president for the Seattle School Board and appreciate the trust my colleagues have placed in my leadership. Governance of the largest district in the state is a tremendous responsibility. Seattle sets the public education standard for our region in so many ways. And yet, like many districts, we must undo legacies of racism and actively build a better future for all our students. COVID-19 continues to be a significant challenge in front of us but also an opportunity to rethink public education. It will require great leadership to realize these opportunities, and I hope to serve in that capacity. As president, I will maintain my commitments to transparency, accountability, and authentic engagement with students, families, staff, and the broader community. I look forward to serving our community in this new role and supporting our 53,000 students in their educational journeys."
